

Eddy Laughter

Eddy is studying English at Smith College, and aspires to a career in writing novels and screenwriting. Her participation in a program called The Moth, a creative extra-curricular program which builds community through storytelling and workshops, served as a catalyst for Eddy's interests. The program involved workshopping a true story from her life, culminating in a live performance by Eddy of her personal story. This opportunity to perform her story in front of her peers was empowering and inspirational for Eddy and opened her eyes to how stories and performance can be a means of connecting with others and building community. Eddy was also very active during high school in the Powell House Youth Program which fosters spiritual growth in the manner of the Society of Friends (Quakers.) Eddy's many talents and admirable qualities were recognized by teachers and peers in her school, The Beacon School, and she is excited to further her creative accomplishments at Smith.
